

All good people?

“I’ve seen all good people turns their heads
each day so satisfied...I’m on my way.”

– Yes, from The Yes Album, 1971

At The Calling, we are convinced beyond all shadow of doubt that humankind has the knowledge, technology, and ability to eliminate all suffering on this planet. Theologically, philosophically, scientifically and experientially, we are convinced this is true.

What humankind seems to lack is the moral will.

This is not an American thing, a European thing or even a white thing: it is a global issue. We still want to solve our problems with guns and bombs instead of diplomacy and peace. In 2014, the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute put world military expenditures at $1,776 billion (that’s one trillion, 776 billion dollars), and yet the 2014 research budget for the American Cancer Society was just $1 billion, or 1/2 of 1% of that amount.

Don’t you think that if we placed as much energy into disease research as we do war-making that we could eradicate disease? We do. When our spiritual development catches up to our technological development, we will eliminate all physical diseases. Further, when our spirits catch up and even go beyond our technology and we are living strong, organic, balanced and loving lives, all emotional, mental and other “inner” disease will also vanish.

This is what we believe, live and work for here at The Calling. Please join us in thinking globally.
